INSTRUCTIONS

- When you receive the box, carefully cut the tape on the top flaps and open the top (see photo below).

- Then you can cut one short side of the box and lay it down. This makes it easier to carry the item out of the box.
- Make sure to cut from the inside of the box. This helps to protect from accidentally cutting your unit.

Removing From The Box

- Please keep all packaging materials. This helps in the event that you need to return the unit for whatever reason.
- TEAM LIFT: Make sure to have at least two people to lift and move the unit.
- Do not lift from the head rest or foot rest areas.
- For this unit, it is best to lift with one hand on the metal where the arm rest connects to the unit (1) and another hand where the hand remote goes (2). Do not grab the metal hook that the hand remote hooks onto.

- Lift the unit with your partner and walk it out of the box.
- We recommend setting the unit on a furniture dolly or pallet jack when and where it is practical to use one. Otherwise, you can carry the unit to your desired location.

Installation

- Please keep all packaging until you test all the functions.
- Place the unit in the desired location in your space. Attach the arm rests, head rest, and any other accessories.
- Ensure the ground below the bed is flat and not wet or slippery.
- If the bed wobbles on your floor, adjust the leveling feet (photo below) by spinning them to raise or lower them. The foot that clears the floor when you rock the table is the one that will need adjustment.
- Once you have extended one of the feet to fix the wobbling, if your feet have an adjustable nut like in the photo below, you can spin the nut up until it reaches the metal of the base.

- Ensure the power cable is connected to the unit and plug it into an appropriate wall outlet.
- Test all of the motor functions on the unit. Ensure the hand remote works as it should.

Motor Controls on the Palermo

- On the backrest there are controls for the backrest, seat tilt, and table height.
 - Above the controls on the backrest is a reset button (see below).
When the reset button is pressed, the unit automatically returns to the seated chair position and lowest height. It is recommended the chair be in this position when a client gets on or off the chair.
 - Also, when a client gets on or off, ensure the chair rotation is locked (see below).
 - Another thing to help a client get on or off is to swing one of the arm rests out of the way for him or her.
- On the seat cushion there are controls for the backrest, seat tilt, leg rest angle, and table height.
- On the leg cushion there is a button for the leg rest angle.

Hand Remote Use

Not all buttons on the hand remote have a function. Please see below to see what each button does.

* The motors will be locked and no buttons will work to move the bed.

 Reset button automatically returns the unit to the seated chair position and lowest height. It is recommended the chair be in this position when a client gets on or off the chair.
